The Marvel of Peru.

This great new perfume bids fair to supplant all others that have yet attracted the attention of the public. Messrs. Wright & Co. have reason to be proud of their great discovery, in the exquisite combination of plants and flowers which have yielded this truly odoriferous compound; and whilst we have no quarrel with its lasting and delightful odors, we cannot go amiss in giving it a new name, in which every beautiful and tasteful lady in the land will second us. The Marvel of America would be a better name; but at the same time a change of name could not add to its virtues or heighten its extraordinary fragrancy. The Messrs. Wright have made two great acquisitions to the toilet, which bid fair to meet with the general approbation of all who need such articles. The OIL OF PALM AND MACE, for the hair; and the MARVEL OF PERU, for drawing-rooms. They can both be obtained at Dr. KEYSER'S, 140 Wood street.

How to Gain in Weight.

A gentleman, rather remarkable for his obesity, was asked where he obtained his meals, as the bill of fare must be exceedingly good, since he appeared to be growing larger and larger every day. The prompt reply was "At the Continental Saloon, next door to the Postoffice, on Fifth street, which is kept by that prince of epicures—Holtzheimer." The answer was pert and to the point, for at the Continental the best meals to be obtained in the city are daily served up at the most reasonable of prices. Game—the rarest, steaks, fish, and everything to tempt the palate, are served up in a better style than could Professor Blot indicate, and if you eat one meal gotten up by Holtzheimer, at a few minutes' notice, you will forever bestow your patronage on this place alone.

Almost a Wedding—Unhappy Termination of a Love Affair—Flight and Pursuit.

A young lady, giving her name as Hannah Preston, appeared before Justice Wolf, of Millcreek township, on Saturday, and, after being duly sworn, deposed in substance as follows:

Some two years since she formed the acquaintance of a promising youth named Jerome Burns, while living at the residence of her uncle, William B. Preston, in Lawrence county, Pennsylvania. Burns was employed as a clerk at a blast-furnace near New Castle, and lived in extravagant style at the principal hotel in that bustling town. Being possessed of a handsome personelle, with a considerable amount of native dash, he was not long in making a decided impression on the plastic heart of the too susceptible Hannah. The twain indulged in many sweet hours of soft dalliance, and at the end of eighteen months' studious courtship they were betrothed, and the nuptial day arranged for the following (last) Christmas eve.

As the time crept slowly away, Hannah began to make the necessary preparations for the bridal, and, with much care, selected a brilliant trousseau at a well-known dry-goods house in Cleveland.

Judge of her consternation when on her return she found a note from her affianced, conveying to her the electrifying intelligence that he could not fulfill his part of the contract for divers reasons, and stating that he was en route for New York, from which city he would send her all the pecuniary aid in his power. The shock consequent on this disclosure brought about a fever, in the agonies of which the trusting girl became a mother.

When convalescent she learned that Burns had not gone to Gotham, but had come to this city, finding employment at a tannery near Mill Creek. She instantly determined on following him, and with the fruit of her illicit love arrived at the Little Miami depot Friday afternoon at four o'clock. She soon discovered that she was on the right scent, as an employee of one of the tanneries, told, on enquiry, that Burns was engaged at an establishment on the Mill Creek Road. Fearing that he would become aware of her presence, and seek safety in flight, if she didn't use the greatest expedition in the work of capturing him, she repaired at once to the office of the magistrate named and instituted suit against the false Jerome for seduction. An officer was immediately dispatched in quest of the accused, but fortunately for himself he had left for Indianapolis a few hours before. Whether his sudden departure was the result of being apprised of Hannah's arrival or not we cannot even surmise, yet such may have been the case. The lady left last night for the capital of the Hoosier State, hoping to overtake the fugitive.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Extraordinary Hoax.

A correspondence between the Vicar of Newport, Isle of Wight, and the Electric Telegraph Company's engineer at Southampton, divulges an extraordinary hoax. On St. Patrick's Day the Vicar received a dispatch, marked "private," which stated that the fortifications of Dublin had been attacked, that two thousand Fenians had been killed and wounded, that the telegraph office had been burned down, and that a Fenian fleet was expected to attack the port of Dublin. Upon receiving this dispatch the Vicar read it to his congregation, and requested their prayers for those who were supposed to be in peril. When the reverend gentleman discovered that the message was a gross fabrication, inquiries were instituted, and it is now stated that a boy in the telegraph office at Southampton had been playing what the telegraph company's engineer calls a "practical joke" with a juvenile friend at Newport. The two "jokers" have been suspended.

—A new life boat known as the "monitor raft" is on exhibition in New York. It is composed of three air-tight gutta percha cylinders, twenty-five feet in length and twenty-six inches in diameter, encased in heavy duck covers of the strongest material, and connected together by means of heavy duck flanges, which form a complete deck surface. On the top and across these cylinders are placed a series of thwarts or planks, which answer the double purpose of structures to keep the cylinders apart and seats for passengers. The raft when inflated has a buoyant capacity of ten thousand pounds, can not be swamped or capsized, and will carry forty or fifty persons.

FREEDMEN'S BUREAU REPORTS.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, April 23, 1867.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH INDIANS.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has received telegrams from General Sully, President of the Commission to investigate the massacre at Fort Phil. Kearney, dated California Crossing, April 20th, which states that after great difficulty they succeeded in getting the Agadola and Brute Sioux in for a talk, representing three hundred and fifty lodges. A satisfactory arrangement was made with them, and the General thinks it can safely be said they have prevented over seven hundred warriors joining the war party. The Commission would leave Fort Sedgwick for Fort Laramie in three or four days, and hope to be successful in preventing many more Sioux joining the hostile party. There had been much trouble on the road to Fort Laramie from the Sioux, which would increase the difficulties and expense of the Commission.

SURRATT'S TRIAL—ATTEMPT TO FIX A TIME.

Messrs. Bradley and Merrick, counsel for Surratt, appeared in the Criminal Court and filed a petition, alleging that the prosecution has had the fullest notice and amplest means to prepare for trial, and can have no reasonable ground upon which to ask further postponement; that the prisoner's means have been utterly exhausted in seeking evidence to establish beyond all doubt his innocence; that he is now ready and demands a speedy trial. Counsel therefore prayed the Court to overrule the motion of the District Attorney for a continuance, and to designate some day at the present term for trial. U. S. Attorney Carrington was willing the prisoner should have a speedy trial, which would be as soon as the interests of the accused and the Government could be properly consulted. He expected in the trial to be able to satisfy the Court and all the world that Surratt was guilty.

Judge Fisher did not think the prisoner had cause to complain, and there was no reason why he should be very impatient, for prisoners were frequently six months in jail before trial; but still he desired to have a trial at this term and signified it would be desirable to proceed to trial on or about the 27th of May.

Mr. Bradley said they would be ready on the 20th, and if the District Attorney was not then ready they would consent to postpone the case to the 27th of May.

The District Attorney said he could not be ready before the 18th of June. He could not state precisely.

Counsel then withdrew and the business of the Court proceeded.

CONCERNING PUBLIC LANDS.

The Commissioner General of the Land Office has transmitted to the local offices in Minnesota lists of lands approved to that State for internal improvement, amounting to 252,028 acres.

The Commissioner has received returns from the local office at Springfield, Missouri, for March, showing an aggregate disposal of 36,016 acres of public lands, 32,091 of which were taken for actual settlement and cultivation under the homestead law. The cash sales amounted to $6,119.

FREEDMEN'S BUREAU REPORTS.

Reports from officers of the Freedmen's Bureau in South Carolina state that the freed people are generally employed and doing well. The agent in the Barnwell district says the feeling of the people towards the blacks is generally becoming more favorable. The destitution in Lexington and Rockland districts has been relieved by the issue of the corn sent by the Southern Relief Association and the issue of Government rations. The schools are in a prosperous condition, and several planters have signified their willingness to aid in their establishment and continuance.

From the report from General Gillam, Assistant Superintendent for Kentucky, it appears the condition of the freed people is improving and the conduct of the whites is such as not to occasion any difficulties. But few outrages are reported and those are generally of a trivial character. The freedmen in several sub-districts are working with more spirit than at any time since the war.

The sub-commissioner at Vicksburg reports few complaints by freedmen, and generally against employers for violation of their contracts, and when they were not adjusted at the office of the sub-commissioner, they were referred to the civil courts. The inferior courts appear more desirous to give full justice to the freedmen, and the higher courts are still impartial in the adjustment cases.

ASSIGNED TO DUTY.

Colonel O. Cross, promoted brevet Brigadier General, and brevet Major A. G. Robinson are assigned to duty as Chief Quartermasters of the district of Fort Snelling, Minnesota. Brevet Major E. B. Grimes is assigned to duty as Post Quartermaster at Fort Laramie.

LATE CONDENSED NEWS.

The original cause of disagreement between the two branches of the Columbian Government was the passage in March of a law enacting that the Government troops should not interfere in quarrels between the States. Mosquera vetoed the bill immediately, and declared communication between Congress and himself to have ceased, and gave notice that he would put in force the article giving him the power of condemning to death. The day after the issue of this decree it was suspended, and an agreement was arranged by which the President was authorized to reorganize the Panama Railroad Company, and the exiled bishops were allowed to return to their charges immediately, and the number of troops are to remain the same as at present.

Mr. Davis declined to make the application, as it would be a confession of his guilt, and would prejudice his case at the trial, which he understood was close at hand. Mr. Bagley, however, went to the President to ascertain if a pardon would be granted on petitions, but learned that the President granted no pardons without an application from the culprit.

New York Constitutional Delegate Election—Republican Majority—H. Ward Beecher Defeated.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The election for Senatorial delegates to the Constitutional Convention in this city, resulted in the choice of nineteen Democrats and one Republican, the latter by less than ten majority. Thirty-two delegates at large are elected throughout the State, of whom sixteen are of each party.

Advices from the interior of the State report: Albany, 1,600, Democratic; Poughkeepsie 665, Republican; Syracuse, 320 Republican; Rochester, 500 Republican; Utica, 180 Democratic, but Oneida county, of which Utica is county town, 1000 Republican; Buffalo, 1800, Democratic.

The O'Neill Scandal—Both Sides, with a Sworn Statement from D. O'Neill, Esq.

The entire community was shocked on Sunday last by the publication in the Leader of a case of scandal, in which Daniel O'Neill, Esq., of the Dispatch, figured in a painfully conspicuous manner. In the absence of that gentleman from the city on a wedding tour East, we concluded to delay the publication of the serious charge until such time as he could be heard from in his own defense, and herewith give both sides of the story without comment, trusting that our readers will reserve their verdict until such time as the entire matter is thoroughly investigated before the proper tribunal.

On Friday last Mr. James B. O'Neill appeared in the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny county, and made application for divorce from his wife Mary Ann, on the ground of adultery, as set forth in the following petition:

To the Honorable, the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County:

The petition and libel of James B. O'Neill respectfully represents that a marriage was contracted and celebrated between the libellant and Mary Ann Cordell (now Mary Ann O'Neill) on the 22d of July, 1863, and although by the laws of God, as well as by their mutual vows in this behalf, the said Mary Ann O'Neill and the libellant were bound to the constancy which belongs to the marriage state, yet so it is that the said Mary Ann O'Neill, in violation of said laws and her vows aforesaid, has committed adultery with one Daniel O'Neill within one year last past; wherefore the libellant, showing that he is a citizen of this Commonwealth, and has resided therein for one whole year previously to filing his petition and libel, prays that a subpena may issue from the said Court to the said Mary Ann O'Neill, commanding her to appear at the next Court of Common Pleas of said county, to answer said petition and libel, and show cause why the libellant should not be divorced and separated from the nuptial ties and bonds of matrimony, contracted as aforesaid with the said Mary Ann O'Neill, and he will, etc. J. B. O'NEILL.

April 17, 1867.

Allegheny County, ss:

James B. O'Neill, the above named libellant, being duly sworn, says that the facts contained in his foregoing petition and libel are true to the best of his knowledge and belief; that the said complaint is not made out of levity or collusion between him and the said Mary Ann O'Neill, and for the mere purpose of being freed and separated from each other, but in sanctity and truth, for the causes mentioned in said petition and libel. J. B. O'NEILL.

Sworn and subscribed this 17th day of April, 1867, before me,

A. S. NICHOLSON, Alderman.

Mrs. Mary Ann O'Neill, the wife of J. B. O'Neill alluded to, subscribed to an affidavit before Alderman Nicholson, in which for "conscience sake" (as set forth we believe in the body of the oath) she confesses to having had criminal intimacy with D. O'Neill. Thus stands the matter on the part of J. B. O'Neill, the petitioner.

Mr. D. O'Neill promptly furnishes the press here with the following card, which will probably stay the current of public opinion until he gets home and makes a further defense. Here is his card:

CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

ST. NICHOLAS HOTEL, NEW YORK, April 22, 1867.—I have just received a dispatch from Pittsburgh informing me that the Leader publishes an application for divorce on the part of Jas. B. O'Neill, on the ground that one D. O'Neill has had criminal intercourse with his wife. As I am, probably, the person referred to, I take the earliest opportunity to declare that there is not even the shadow of foundation for his complaint, so far as I am concerned, and to pronounce his statement a falsehood so malignant, atrocious and improbable in its character, that no one save a lunatic or a scoundrel double-dyed in infamy, would have had the temerity to utter it. Not having yet seen the Leader, I am, of course, ignorant of the precise nature of the complaint to which it refers, but the fact that my name should be at all used in such a connection, does me such wrong that I have not patience to wait for details, and therefore avail myself of the first mail to give the story the fullest, flattest and most positive contradiction.

And in this connection, a few words in explanation of my associations with the vile author of this charge may not be out of place. Passing over the earlier years of his residence in Pittsburgh, during which I had, in a measure, to clothe and support him, we come down to 1862, when I took a house on Smithfield street, whither he came to live with me. It was in the summer of that year, I think, that an officer came to my residence and arrested this J. B. O'Neill for fornication and bastardy on oath of his present wife. He was taken to Alderman Taylor's office, where I went his bail, but afterwards, (when through my advice he made the girl the only reparation in his power, by marrying her,) the suit was withdrawn, and the parties, having no other home, came to live with me as man and wife. They remained in my house some two years, during which I never, perhaps, exchanged two dozen words with the woman whom I am now charged with having seduced. Naturally forbidding and cold in her manner, my aversion towards her increased through her having had him arrested, and for other reasons not necessary here to name. During their residence with me, their relations were anything but pleasant. He married her to escape the county jail, and even thus early he would have got rid of her if he had had only a plausible pretext. He was continually complaining to my wife of her coldness, ignorance, &c., and often declared that but for his children he would leave her right away. I might add here that so objectionable did their presence in the house become that I turned them out in 1863, but after much begging on his part, I took them back the succeeding April, when their presence becoming more and more obnoxious, the "putting out" process was again resorted to, and they left me for good some time last spring.

Previous to my leaving for Europe last summer, he borrowed $1,000 from me, for which I now hold his note, and, as when breaking up housekeeping, I had given him a considerable amount of property, he felt he was under some obligations to me, so on my return to Pittsburgh, in November, he volunteered to take my little boy to his house to board. In January last he moved to a house on Smithfield street, and once a week or so, I used to call there to see my boy. There was no parlor or dining room, and as the family only occupied the second floor, I always went up stairs to the back bed room, which was used as a sitting and sleeping room, and where the children were always kept. Nearly all my visits to the house were made in broad daylight, and I do not believe that I was there three times that I did not meet him in the house. He invariably pressed me to sit down, stay for dinner, &c.; and even wished me to occupy the front room as a sleeping apartment and take my meals at the hotel. I never once saw his wife alone in the house, never spoke a light or indelicate word to her, and never even as much as touched her hand. He knew and must know now that I always had an aversion to her, for I made no concealment of it, and what can it be short of the most fiendish malice or complete aberration of mind that prompts him to make this charge against me now is something I cannot understand.

Early in March last I intimated to him that I intended getting married. His wife was by, and instead of offering some pleasant remark, as I expected he would, he received the announcement in dogged silence. He afterwards, at my room in the hotel, endeavored to persuade me against this step, and failing to win me to his views, his bearing towards me assumed such a marked change that I afterwards mentioned the matter to a number of my friends as showing how foolish and selfish he was.

In the latter part of March we were still good friends, as may be inferred from the fact that he rented a house on Fourth street, on the 1st of April, for the rent of which ($600) he got me to go his security, and for which I am to-day liable. Moreover, he made an agreement with me then to keep my boy by my paying $200 of the rent, and, furthermore, wanted me to take the front room and sleep there. This to a man who had seduced his wife was very kind, and will hardly tally with his story. But though he spoke to me less warmly than of old—which I attributed to his objection to my getting married—our relations continued friendly to Tuesday, the 16th inst., when, having called at his house, to take my little boy out to get his hair clipped, he invited me to sit down to dinner with him! His wife was at the table at the time, and, I suppose, if I had accepted his invitation, it would have formed another count in his indictment against me.

I visited his house, on Fourth street, altogether but three times, twice of which he was present. My visits were in the day time, to my little boy, never lasted over five minutes, and on no occasion did I even sit down there.

I will here mention another fact to show that the wretch cannot and does not believe the story to which he subscribes. But a few days before the visit to his house last referred to, he came to my room in the hotel, and in presence of my brother, complained about my leaving the Second ward, stating that he only rented a house there that he might be able to work for me on election days, and adding, that now, as I was going to the First ward, he had no interest in having a house there, and that he wished he had never taken it. Subsequent to this he came to my room again, plead with me to take his house at Perrysville off his hands, that he was a ruined man if I did not, as he could not sell it and had no money either to meet the payment almost due on it, or pay me. I told him it was too far out for me, and after assuring him that I would not trouble him for what he owed me for some time, he left the room, expressing feelings for me, very unlike what might be expected, if he believed that I was the guilty wretch which he would now make me appear.

From what I have written it will be seen that, to within a week, our relations, though less warm than of old, were friendly, and that he, neither by word, act, or otherwise, gave me the slightest intimation that he believed or suspected I had dishonored his bed. When the plot, of which the application referred to by the Leader is the offspring, was hatched, I cannot say, but from some facts communicated to me by a friend, I should infer that it has been for some time under consideration, and as carefully prepared as the flimsy nature of the material of which it is built will permit.

The proper mode of rebutting the atrocious charge against me which his application covers, I hardly know; but I hope the Court before deciding on it will give me the opportunity. Counsel for this miserable man informs me that I will not be permitted to take any part in the case, either in vindication of my own character or otherwise; but this can hardly be. Surely the friends of this man's wife will not quietly see her branded as an adulteress, especially when the strongest and most complete testimony can be offered of the falsity of the charge. All I ask in this matter is simple justice. I court the fullest enquiry and investigation, and this given me, I have no fears for the result. Nay more, I am willing at any time to go before this man's wife, with her husband's lawyer, and if she says that I have ever laid a hand on her in my life, or spoke an indelicate word to her, I will admit myself the veriest scoundrel living, and give him what reparation he may require.

This card goes, perhaps, into details too much, and, writing in ignorance of the charge against me, it may not be sufficiently to the point; but I prize the good opinion of my friends too much to let them remain in suspense as to the character of my reply, and have therefore written sooner than I otherwise would. The entire story is a lie out of the whole cloth, false as hell, and could only have been instigated by the Prince of Devils. Asking that the public will suspend their judgment in the matter until all the facts are out,

I remain, &c.,
D. O'NEILL.

Sworn to before me this twenty-second day of April, A. D. 1867, WM. H. POST.
Notary Public, New York City and County.

In connection with the above we again advise the public to lay aside prejudices and dispassionately weigh both sides of the matter, or rest contented without giving expression of views upon the subject, till the case has been adjusted before the proper tribunal for.

The Mayoralty in Allegheny.

Quite a number of candidates have already "put in an appearance" for this important position in our sister city. Among them we notice the name of our friend Adjutant A. P. Callow, late of the 102d Pa. Volunteers. We were not aware, until the present, that Lieutenant Callow intended to be a candidate for this office. At the commencement of the war, Lieut. Callow enlisted as a private in the 13th Pa. Volunteer Infantry, and afterwards in the 102d Regiment. Here his good administrative abilities were brought out, and he was promoted to Adjutant of his regiment. In this capacity he served until the battle of the Wilderness, when, from the effects of a wound received in that battle, he was compelled to resign his position. Without, in any way, saying anything against the claims of other candidates for the position, we can heartily commend our friend Callow as one fully competent to discharge the duties of the Mayoralty.

Excursion Tickets to Ecclesiastical Convention.

The Pittsburgh, Columbus and Cincinati Railroad Company will pass delegates to the various religious conventions over their road at half fare. Delegates must pay full fare going to their respective assemblies, and on presenting the certificate of the clerk or moderator that they did so, and were present at the meeting, will be returned free. This arrangement applies to all the religious bodies that are to assemble both in the East and West next month.

The Pennsylvania Railroad cannot make any lady-fare arrangements "owing to an existing compact between lines competing for business to and from the West."

New Music Received.

We are indebted to Messrs. Barr, Knake & Buettler, the well known music publishers, for three new pieces just issued from their press, "Beautiful Effie, the Flower of the Vale," a charming ballad; "Forest Flowers," a collection of beautiful songs, arranged for the guitar, by W. G. Rupp, and the "Woodside March," a stirring instrumental composition, by Edward Spoth. These pieces are all published in the highest style of lithographic art, and reflect much credit upon the publishers. Ladies should call in and see specimen copies at No. 12 St. Clair street, where they will find, also, an immense stock of the finest musical publications of the old or new worlds.

COURT REPORTS.

District Court.

Before Hon. W. H. Williams.

Henry Baldinger vs. Jeremiah Knox. Before reported. Verdict in favor of plaintiff for $150.

Dietrich Formholz and wife vs. John H. Rehren and Frederick Fisher. Action in ejectment for property in Pitt township. This case occupied the entire session, and just before adjournment the parties came to an understanding, the jury finding a verdict in accordance with the views of both sides.

Court of Common Pleas.

Before Hon. Thomas Mellon.

Frank McLaughlin vs. Hugh McLaughlin. Before reported. Verdict in favor of plaintiff for $121.32.

G. Kenough vs. John Shaffer, and John Walker vs. John Shaffer. Before reported. In the first case the jury found in favor of plaintiff in the sum of $25. In the other the plaintiff took a non-suit.

Hugh Roberts vs. F. K. Duff. The parties were partners in the lumber business, as Roberts & Duff, and plaintiff sues to recover $580.31, in which he claimed defendant was indebted to him, in pursuance of an agreement entered into between them, as partners, that he (the plaintiff) was to receive a compensation of $1,000 per annum for selling and delivering the lumber manufactured at their saw mill, at such time as he (the plaintiff) was not engaged in attending to the partnership business, thus relieving the defendant from devoting his time and attention either to his own separate saw mill business, or that of the firm of Duff & Roberts. The claim was for services from June 1st, 1866. For the defense the contract referred to was denied, and defendant averred that on the 27th of January, 1866, plaintiff purchased his interest in the co-partnership, when a full and final settlement was made of all matters pertaining to the partnership as well as to all individual matters. Jury out.

Robert Wray, Jr., vs. James P. Hanna, surviving partner of Ira B. McVay & Co. Action on a promissory note for $1,000, dated April 1st, 1865, drawn by James McClelland, payable to the order of William M. Dawson, and endorsed by William M. Dawson, R. P. Gordon and Robert Wray, Jr. Plaintiff claimed to have sold the note to the banking firm of Ira B. McVay & Co., and that it was not presented to the drawer when it became due, and no proper demand made upon him for payment; that the note has never been paid by the drawer or any one for him, and that defendants did not put it into the hands of a notary for presentment for payment and protest on the day on which it became due; further, that no demand was made for the payment of the note until two days after it became due, and that no notice had previously been given to the endorsers, whereby they were relieved from all liability; further, that having received notice of non-payment, plaintiff believed that payment had been properly demanded and that due notice of non-payment had been given to the other endorsers, and that they were liable on their endorsement; so believing, and not knowing that the note had not been presented for payment on the day it became due, plaintiff paid the sum of $1,007 37 to defendants in payment of the note and lifted the same; further that both said endorsers, Dawson and Gordon, have refused to pay said note to him, and James McClelland, the drawer, is insolvent, and was insolvent when the note became due, and that at the time Dawson and Gordon, the other endorsers, were solvent and good, and the amount of the note could have been collected from them if they had not been released from their liability by the neglect of the defendants, as stated; and further that he paid the sum of $1,007 37 to defendants under a mistake and that at the time of the payment had he known that no demand for the payment of the note had been made on the day it became due he would not have paid the money. Under these state of facts he claimed that the defendants were justly indebted to him in the sum stated. On trial at adjournment.

Mercantile Library Lectures.

At the urgent solicitation of many persons, who were desirous of hearing Henry Vincent, the eloquent orator and exponent of liberal ideas, the Lecture Committee have at great expense and trouble induced Mr. V., to give a course of three lectures in this city, commencing this evening. His eloquence, electric fire and the zeal and fervor that he brings to bear on his subject, sends a thrill through every hearer. His success in other cities has been almost unparalleled, and in many places, crowds of people were unable to get even standing room in the halls. We venture the prediction, that those who hear Mr. V., to-night, will not miss hearing him on Thursday and Friday evenings. His subject to-night is, "The late Great American Conflict and the Friends and Enemies of America in England." Perhaps no man living is better able to speak on this subject than Mr. V., who—in company with such men as John Bright and others, showed themselves true friends of our country while in its greatest need. It may not be generally known, that the subject for Thursday evening, "The English movements I have taken part in and the men I have known" is what is called by many his great "Daniel O'Connell lecture." All three lectures will be delivered at the Academy of Music, and as there are no reserved seats we say to all—go early if you wish to be well seated.

Assault Upon an Officer.

Night before last one of the watchmen on Penn street observed two men working in a rather suspicious manner over a third man, who was evidently intoxicated. The watchman demanded whether they were friends of the drunken man or not. Their reply was that he was a stranger, but that they would take care of him and see him home. The watchman then stated that he would relieve them of that trouble, and take care of the man himself. His offer was repulsed and an attack made upon him by the two men. The watchman then rapped for help, whereupon officer Thomas Smith, of the special force, came to his assistance. The officers then took the men and started with them for the Mayor's office. Peter McElroy, the prisoner in charge of officer Smith, suddenly snatched from the latter a rattan with a loaded head. In the struggle for the possession of the rattan, it was broken—McElroy getting that part with the loaded head. This made a formidable offensive weapon, and with it he made a vigorous attack upon the officer, striking him repeatedly on the head and face, and inflicting some severe cuts and bruises. Finally the prisoner was subdued and taken to the watch house. In the morning officer Smith made information against him for aggravated assault and battery. A full hearing will be had in the case next Thursday at the Mayor's office.

Robbed at the Railroad Depot.

Saturday night last Charles Hart, just arrived in the city with his wife and two children, on his way from North Carolina to Cincinnati, had his pocket picked while waiting at the Union Depot, of a pocket book, containing a railroad ticket to Cincinnati, together with forty dollars in cash, thus leaving him penniless. He discovered his loss when, having bought some cakes for his children, he searched for his pocket book to find it gone. This was immediately after leaving the cars, and Mr. Hart states that while passing along the platform he experienced some difficulty, owing to the crowd collected there at the time. This was the time of the robbery undoubtedly. The police have no clue to the thief.

The Towboat Explosion.—An investigation into the cause of the explosion on the towboat Alex. Chambers, which occurred in the Monongahela river on Thursday of last week, commenced on Monday before George H. Atkinson and Samuel Walker, United States Local Inspectors for this district. A number of witnesses were examined, among whom were the captain and engineer of the boat. The investigation will occupy three or four days.

A Pickpocket.—Fulton Donnan, alias "Slim Jim," an alleged pickpocket, was "pulled" by officer Moon, of the Mayor's police, on Monday night. He is charged with picking the pocket of Samuel Pittington, of East Birmingham, in a Smithfield street saloon. He succeeded in abstracting a small amount of fractional currency. The Mayor committed him in default of $300 bail.

Arrest of An Alleged Murderer.

The Wheeling Intelligencer notes the arrest of a man accused of murdering about a year ago a man named Gallup, in the oil regions near Parkersburg, and concealing his body in a culvert. Five men were suspected of the crime, and four of them arrested at different times. One, however, named T. M. Simpson, managed to evade the detectives, who have been on his track ever since the murder took place. Within the past few months he has been known to pass frequently over the B. & O. R. R. between Wheeling and Grafton. He was known to have been at Littleton, and to have mailed letters there and at Moundsville. A watch which had belonged to the murdered man Gallup, was seen in his possession more than once. But although the detectives heard of these things, they couldn't get eyes on the man himself. A reward of $500 had been offered for his apprehension; photographs had been scattered about and men were on the look out. It appears that for a week or two past a man without visible means of support or an apparent object, who gave his name as Tom Waits, has been staying about Moundsville. His appearance and habits were calculated to excite suspicion. He carried pistols and a knife and kept himself very much secluded. Some two weeks ago he applied to G. S. McFadden, Superintendent of the Penitentiary, for work, which it was arranged he should have. But instead of going to work for Mr. McFadden he engaged with some parties who were hauling stone for the Penitentiary. It was noticed that he never came to the table when the rest did, but always managed to come in afterwards and eat by himself. Somehow Mr. McFadden, having seen a description of the supposed murderer of Gallup, happened to think this suspicious man answered the description. His strange conduct confirmed the half awakened suspicion, so he went last Saturday evening to a tavern where Waits stayed to get a good look at him. The description stated that Simpson's left eye had a twist outward. When Mr. McFadden went in Waits was sitting in a corner, his forehead resting on his left hand, which, as if by accident, shaded and quite concealed his left eye. Mr. McFadden walked up to him, took down his hand and told him he wanted to see "that other eye." The other very much surprised looked up, when sure enough there was the left cock-eye, precisely answering the description. Mr. McFadden immediately arrested him and he was sent to jail.

Mr. McFadden was in Wheeling on Monday, with a view of procuring one of the photographs of Simpson, but not being able to do that, he found a gentleman who had had a photograph in his possession, and had been for some time on the alert for Simpson, and who is sure he can identify him from his familiarity with the picture. He accompanied Mr. McFadden to Moundsville.

The Moundsville people say if this man is not Simpson and didn't murder Gallup, he has done something else as bad; but the belief there is, he is the same man.

The Grand Concert Last Night.

There assembled a brilliant audience last evening upon the occasion of the Grand Concert under the direction of Professor Houghawout, for the benefit of the suffering poor. The programme opened by a masterly performance on the violin by Professor Manning, whom, we beleive to be without a superior in this country. He was accompanied on the piano by C. C. Mellor, Esq., and the duet was brilliantly executed, delighting the audience, and calling forth the most rapturous applause. "He was despised," by Handel, was rendered by Miss Caroline McCaffrey, of Philadelphia, in an affecting and intensely thrilling manner. She is possessed of a voice which subdues the soul, while it warms the heart—mournfully sweet and deliciously mellow. Mr. S. Apfelbaum followed in a masterly vocalization, and more than sustained his high reputation as an artist. He has a rich and powerful voice, which, under perfect training and in complete mastery, he modulates and governs so exquisitely and so powerfully that he always wins the plaudits of his audience. Pittsburgh is proud in the possession of a vocalist of such rare ability and grace of execution. Miss Hattie Jones, already a great favorite as a sweet songstress, rendered the Flower Song in magnificent style, and won the heartiest applause. The duets of the Misses McCaffrey were grand and soul-inspiring, and those ladies last evening made a marked impression upon the brilliant audience assembled. Upon the whole the concert was a complete success, and those who failed to attend deprived themselves of the rarest musical feast of the season.

Walter Brown, the sculler, who is likewise a perfect gentleman, will appear in his Indian club exercise at the Opera House to-morrow night, in order to gratify a universal request on the part of the public interested in the forthcoming aquatic race, to see him. He is a well made, muscular gentleman, devoid of that supercilious style put on by some members of the aquatic fraternity, and we trust he will be greeted by a large audience.

Before Alderman Thomas.—Emma Johnston, (colored), charged Annie Neely, (Irish) with committing an assault and battery on her little boy, Jesse, by striking him several times. Defendant charged Jesse with committing a like offence on her boy, but had no evidence to prove the charge. Defendant would not care if a white person struck her boy, but could not suffer a "nagur" to do it. Defendant discharged.

Malicious Mischief.—Samuel M. Evans appeared before Alderman Strain, yesterday, and made an information against Thomas Pritchard and William Shields, charging them with malicious mischief, in breaking the bar on the steamboat Elisha Bennett. Both defendants were committed to jail, in default of five hundred dollars bail each, for a further hearing on the 24th inst.

Assault and Battery.—James Rodgers appeared before Alderman Strain yesterday, and made an information against Pat Williams, charging him with assault and battery. Prosecutor alleges that defendant made an unprovoked attack upon him—struck him in the face and otherwise abused him. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

The Rare and beautiful phenomenon known as paraselene, or mock moons, says the Meadville Journal, was seen by some of our citizens on Thursday evening last. On each side of the moon, on an unusually large and luminous ring, was reproduced an image of the moon which rivaled, in distinctness of outline and brilliancy the true moon.

All that remains of the Mecca well, Muskingum county, Ohio, yielding two hundred barrels per day, for one-twentieth of which $5,000 was offered and refused, is a board inscribed, "Mecca Well. No Smoking Allowed on these Premises," and a tank full of rain water. The Schaffer, California, Excelsior and other wells are also deserted.

Conspiracy to Defraud.—At the circus, yesterday, a man named Mickey was arrested on a warrant issued by a Uniontown magistrate, and endorsed by Alderman Strain of this city, on a charge of conspiracy to defraud Crawford Dunlevy. The arrested left for Uniontown in charge of an officer during the day.

Released on Bail.—Andrew Jackson Brown, charged with felonious assault and battery and surety of the peace, on oath of Joseph Penrose, and committed to jail a few days since, in default of bail to appear and answer the same, was yesterday released from confinement on giving the required bail.

From Burning Springs.—Last week the Stump well was tubed and is pumping forty barrels per day. The Byrne well also commenced to produce ninety barrels per day, and Mr. Rece's well thirty barrels per day. A telegraph station is now established at the town of Elizabeth, in Wirt county, West Virginia.

Disorderly House.—Dennis Murphy appeared before Alderman Lynch yesterday and made an information against Mary Meagher for keeping and maintaining a disorderly house. Accused was committed to jail, but afterwards released on bail to appear and answer.

The Black Crook is to be exhibited in this city shortly, a number of special mechanical artists from the east being now engaged at the Opera House making the necessary arrangements for its production in as grand a style as run in New York.

Important Patent Granted.—Captain J. S. McMillis, late of the steamer "Silver Wave," has just received letters patent, dated April 16th, 1867, for Rotating a Capstan by means of an Auxiliary Engine, for Steamboats and other crafts.

Fire in Manchester.—A building, located near the lower end of Rebecca street, Allegheny, and used for the manufacture of roofing material, took fire yesterday afternoon about one o'clock, and was entirely consumed.

THAT APPEAL.

In denying the application of the State of Mississippi for an injunction to restrain the President from executing the Military Government Act, the Supreme Court of the United States came to the conclusion every well-read lawyer, and every layman, tolerably well instructed into the nature of the government, its distribution of powers, and its checks and balances, supposed it would arrive at. Indeed, there was no other rational conclusion admissible. To admit the Supreme Court could interpose by injunction, or by any other process, to prevent Congress from enacting a particular law, or to prevent the carrying of it into effect by the President after it was placed on the statute book, would be to confound all elementary distinctions. This power once admitted to belong to the Judiciary, it would be difficult, if not impossible, to limit its application. Consider this point. The Democrats, while the war raged, insisted there was no rightful authority in the government to coerce a State. Had a majority of the Judges been of that opinion, under the principle now contended for by Judge SHARKEY, they could have placed an absolute injunction on the prosecution of the contest, and so have given the rebels an unimpeded field. This would be to concentrate most of the functions of government in the Judges, and would destroy the harmony and order of the political system.

The Constitution makes the President amenable to Congress for the abuse of the powers entrusted to him, and provides the manner and form in which he shall be proceeded against; but it gives the Supreme Court no control whatever over him.

It should be borne in mind, however, that the decision now made is only preliminary. The main question will come up in the regular order of business if the case shall be left upon the calendar. It is not probable it will. Long before the case can be heard in order the Military Government Act will have accomplished the purposes for which it was framed, and Mississippi, and the nine other seceding States, will be back in their old places in the circle of the Union, in the full enjoyment of the same measure of rights as are now held and used by the loyal States. It may well be inferred, therefore, that nothing further will come of this movement in the Supreme Court.

TRUTH COMING OUT.

At a banquet recently given by the Charleston Board of Trade, Governor ORR made a speech in which he accused the Northern Democrats of promising overt aid to the rebellion, and that they failed to render it. Upon this non-compliance he predicated the opinion that the Southern people should repose no confidence hereafter in professions of sympathy and tenders of service from the same source. A New York correspondent of the Charleston Courier takes the Governor seriously to task for these views. He says:

"If the South [illegible] they are to be found in the [illegible] Radicals. Why the South should [illegible] its back upon its friends, and coquet with the party which has waged this terrible war, and brought down all this ruin, is difficult to understand. For opposing the onward march of Radicalism, the Northern Democrats were driven out of power in 1860, and for six years since, for the crimes of standing by the Constitution and the rights of the South, these Democrats have suffered insult and persecution, imprisonment and mobbing. If they have not been able to attain power and stop the pressure upon the South, it has not been for the want of striving. The very reason of their failure has been their presumed sympathy for the South. The National Democratic Convention at Chicago in 1864 declared 'the war to be a failure' on the part of the Federal Government, and that declaration was the cause of the party defeat in every Northern State. Now that the party has maintained its organization and steadily increased its numbers in the face of all these adverse circumstances, until, as in Connecticut, it is beginning to regain its old ascendancy, and now that the Republican party is torn by intestine quarrels, and is on the verge of dissolution, it is a curious policy to destroy the old friends by deserting them, and give a new lease of power to the old enemies by joining them.

"The charge is made that the Democratic party of the North promised to stand by the South, and prevent coercion in 1861, and that the promise was not kept. In response, it said that the party would have thrown itself into the breach, if, at the critical moment, it had not been deserted by many of its prominent men. A large portion of its members were carried off into the Republican ranks by such Democratic leaders as Dix, Dickinson, Butler, Logan, Forney, Sickles, Stanton and Cochrane. This left the party in a helpless minority, and for refusing to follow these leaders into a crusade upon the South it has been in a minority ever since. Now it is proposed that the South shall abandon the consistent Democrats (Franklin Pierce, Thos. H. Seymour, Horatio Seymour, Charles O'Conor, Isaac Toucey and the like,) and affiliate, perhaps, with the party of which Butler, Logan and Forney are leaders."

Several points are here brought out which deserve to be sharply discriminated and considered, to-wit:

That if the "late Confederate sentiment," that is, the feeling in which the rebellion was conceived and prosecuted, has any friends in the Northern States, they are members of the "Democratic organization." This is an honest statement of the case. The Democratic party was and is the party of treason. What it sought, and still seeks, is not to give the Southern States and people the full measure of their rights in the Union, and under the Constitution, but to enable them to defy the Government, break up the Union, and establish new forms, subversive of genuine liberty.

That if the Democratic party did not take its stand, on battle fields, by the side of the South—or, as one of its Generals phrased it, did not "inaugurate war in these Northern hills and valleys in aid of the rebellion"—it was not for want of will or inclination, but because it was restrained and cowed by the strength of the loyal sentiment prevailing among the Northern people.

That the democratic party was pledged to resist the coercion of the revolted States, and would have made its pledge good, had not many of its prominent men, at the critical moment, taken their stand on the loyal side. The patriotism of the democratic loyalists, was their own; not that of the party. Their separation from that party was what prevented the party from hoisting its true colors and making common cause with the Confederates.

That, as the democratic party failed to redeem its promises, not through want of disposition, but because such men as BUTLER, LOGAN, and FORNEY, bolted, and contributed to the formation of such a public sentiment as made good faith impossible, it ought now to be excused, taken back into favor, and relied upon for any fresh emergencies that may arise.

That the peculiar spite exhibited by the democratic organs towards BUTLER, LOGAN and FORNEY, and that whole class, proceeds from the fact that their loyalty defeated the conspiracy which ran equally through the North as through the South for dismembering the Union, or changing fundamentally the character of its institutions.

—This confirms the most trenchant criticisms pronounced against the democratic party, demonstrating that those criticisms were not founded on malice or uncharitableness, but in a just apprehension of the material facts in the case.

OUR FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.

PARIS, April 3, 1867.

DEAR GAZETTE: En Cavalier shall I now proceed to keep my engagement entered into with you to furnish your readers in the homely old city of smoke and soot, with a few humble jottings of the transpirings in this, the world's metropolis of fashion, pleasure and sunshine. Emerging from a series of the most disagreeable days it has ever been our province to notice, we now enjoy bright and beautiful weather. With a clear sky o'erhead, a dry walk beneath our feet, and everything around us betokening the advent of delicious spring, we cannot but feel thankful that we are in Paris at such a season. The light of mirth and joyfulness beams from the countenances of the throngs we meet passing hurriedly along the thoroughfares, and everybody appears to enter into the full enjoyment of the rejuvenating weather. Perhaps in the world, not even excepting old Rome, there cannot be found more pilgrims to the shrine of pleasure, than are now quartered in Paris. Every nation has its representative here, and the observer has ample field for study. E'en in the melange of humanity we jostle on the Boulevards.

THE GREAT EXPOSITION.

The great magnet of peace, the conception of a NAPOLEON, born out of a desire to cater to the national pride of his singular people—the EXPOSITION has drawn thousands upon thousands of strangers into the French capital. The wily Emperor may mean war in his peaceful ruse. Who knows but the smiling cornucopiae emblazoned on the walls of the Exhibition, only bides the dread emblem of war and desolation—the skull and cross bones? Whatever are his intentions, and we do not presume to fathom the depths of Napoleon's mind, he has succeeded in placing a mirror before his subjects in which they behold their own greatness, and from which is reflected by the sun of peace, to the darkest corners of the world, the culture, art, science and industry of the French nation. The people needed the transitory excitement; by an artifice of peace the Emperor cooled a craving for war. The haughty blood which courses the veins of the sons of France circulates gunpowder, which the least fire of military ardor explodes into grim war or revolution. Not many months will roll into the past, ere the excitement growing out of the birth of the grand idea and its consummation shall have died away, ere the inflammable race will call far war, and mark it, war, universal war, will be waged. But enough moralizing.

THE OPENING.

The imperial fiat of the Emperor went forth that the Exposition should be opened on the first day of April, and as the "man of destiny" so willed [illegible] the public were instructed to enter by the tourniquets at, or after noon, upon the payment each of the very moderate admitance fee of twenty francs. At one o'clock, P. M., the invited guests of the Imperial Commission were permitted to enter upon exhibiting their carte blanche and appearing in their proper costumes—the gents in frock coats, dark pants and white vests and cravats, and the ladies in toilette de ville. At two o'clock, P. M., the Emperor and Empress, accompanied by the Prince Imperial, the President of the Commission, who has just attained his twelfth year, were announced to descend from their carriage at the grand gate of the Palace and pass from thence through designated streets and avenues (as the passages are called) within the building, saluting as they passed the representatives of the different countries. They were to be attended only by the royal suite and the gents in white cravats, and lady companions. On returning, the royal party would remount their carriages at another of the grand gates, and return home we presume. Such was the programme. I was on the ground early and, perhaps by special favor, was admitted at eleven o'clock A. M., upon paying the designated sum. The grounds and gardens are handsomely laid out, but are still in an unfinished condition, requiring fully another month to complete the arrangements in this department. The general beauty, however, is considerably marred by a multiplicity of buildings, for what purpose erected a stranger cannot readily discover, as all are unfinished, and no guide to the Exposition has yet been published. There are many handsome grottoes of rock work in close imitation to nature, showing water falls and other natural adornments in an admirable manner. In many cases, however, the designer has shown a sad want of harmonizing taste, as, for instance, we find a very excellent imitation of the ruins of a castle perched picturesquely upon the crest of a rocky mountain. But the charm of this view is sadly disturbed by a tall brick smoke stack erected in close proximity to it, together with ordinary buildings for the exhibition of machinery and manufactures. The poetical grandeur of the ruins is sadly disturbed by the matter of fact surroundings.

In the first department of the garden, eccentricity of growth and form seems to have been the ruling idea of the master gardener. Here we find pear, cherry and apple trees trained in every shape; there pyramids, vases, fountains, baskets, fans, and other artificial devices blended into each other, sometimes presenting a grotesque appearance which is at variance with the general order of things and nature. For instance, I observed, a tree representing a vase. The rim at top, and a continual growth of wood, entwined by all the branches which form the sides, while the trunk is the vase. A tree in the exact shape of a vase is a novelty, but many such, and other fantastically shaped curiosities are found here. These trees are all in full bloom and in the proper season will doubtless be further adorned with rich tempting fruits. The Aquaria, we judge, will be very fine when completed and properly stocked.

THE UNITED STATES DISPLAY.

With indefatigable energy we traveled for two and a half hours about the grounds, all the time impelled with a laudable spirit of national pride to discover something upon exhibition from our own great country. We are ashamed to write how our efforts were rewarded. In an out-of-the-way place we found a canvas covering under which were crowded, as if merely for temporary storage, a wagon bearing the inscription "Philadelphia Fire Company," painted in glaring letters upon either side, a somewhat rude ambulance which had seen service before Richmond, two other ambulances a little better, a hospital wagon and a cook wagon. In another place was a locomotive and tender very creditable and well displayed, although outside of the building, whilst locomotives from other countries are in the main gallery. Here we have the flag of Washington, not proudly floating defiance in the air of France, but hiding itself closely around the staff as if ashamed and mortified at the position assigned its country. Immediately beneath it stands the shell of one of the most ordinary of Western houses. It is called a "plank house" and yet is neither plank nor frame, but something between the two of the worst construction, without weatherboarding or covering, the roof being merely sheeted. The building, as it stands, is certainly not a credit to the land of Invention, it being neither useful nor ornamental. From the scarcity of timber, such a style could not be generally adopted in Europe. The only point gained by its exhibition might be the demonstration of the limited time necessary for erection, but this is destroyed by the unfinished condition in which it stands. The quarters assigned our country in the "grand gallery" present no better display. Two stands of oil samples from Buffalo, New York; two cases of guns and pistols of neat workmanship from the Providence, New Jersey, Tool Company; three marble mantles highly finished from Brooklyn, New York; two very fine and beautiful chime clocks from New Orleans; one case of tobacco and snuff from New York; an ingenious astronomical instrument from Kentucky; a case of silver or plated ware from Tiffany & Co., New York; a billiard table and two vases of skeletonized leaves and two linen shirts. Many of these articles were dust covered so as to be almost invisible. A visit to this Department must cause a blush to mantle the cheek of Americans, and all seem purposely to shun it, as out of the vast number of visitors only three persons were examining the articles while we were there. It is a downright shame that our country is no better represented. If some shrewd Yankee were to open the unopened cases and "fix up," appearances might be improved even with the scanty American articles furnished. (Visiting afterwards the office of the American Commissioner, found his heavy work issuing tickets to exposants and their agents. He may be able to make a favorable report of his execution of his important trust, and in what manner he has expended the liberal appropriations of Congress, but we fear he will have some trouble in doing so.) Pittsburgh as yet is not represented except in a huge lump of coal from N. J. Bigley, which with perfect ease, graces an uncared for ditch outside the building!

A NATIONAL SLIGHT.

To be just, we must say that other countries are as far behind in their preparation as the United States, but none will make as comparatively a poor show. The ornamentation of our department is horrible, and would disgrace the ginger-bread stalls at a country fair. Entering the central garden, we find upon the building, above each entrance, in conspicuous gilt letters, the names of the countries there represented. England occupies one place, and even Ireland and Great Britain another, whilst the poor Etats Unis are mixed in with Mexico and other South American States of no celebrity or importance. We do not imagine that any insult was intended by the French, but do think our our Commissioner much to be censured in permitting even such an inference. England occupies within the building about twelve times the space allotted to our country, besides having a large extent of shed roofing on the outside. She is the only country nearly ready for exhibition. The exhibitors from England, Ireland and Scotland are very numerous, and are all alive and active. Their articles deservedly attract much attention.

After walking over the whole grounds the conclusion was reached that the Exposition opened prematurely, it requiring at least one, possibly two months before the public should have been admitted.

Let it not be understood that we detract from the merits of the Exposition, as when completed it will be eminently worthy of a trip across the ocean. The admittance fee at the opening was deemed exorbitant, and was by no means good policy.

THE HEAD [illegible] were given [illegible] surgeons for the "advancement of science." A novel experiment was tried with the head with a very interesting result. They ejected into its arteries, fresh arterial blood taken from a dog, and shortly afterwards the head gave unmistakable signs of life. The color returned to the cheeks and lips, the eyes opened brightly and gazed upon those around, the lips moved as if attempting vainly to speak, and the entire face bore the semblance to active life. So soon as the operator ceased to inject the life blood of the dog, the appearances of death rapidly succeeded. It was earnestly held by the eminent surgical gentlemen in attendance, that during the operation the brain was in full and natural action, and that the lips tried to utter the last thought which found resting place in the mind of the condemned. The experiment will lead to others of a similar nature, of which we shall advise you in due season. X.

GIVE NATURE A LIFT.

People expect too much of Nature. They trifle with their health and their constitutions, and then are surprised that they fall sick.

The pressure of constant mental or bodily labor, upon the animal powers, is tremendous. Very few systems and constitutions can bear up against this pressure unassisted. And to this the unhealthy influences which lurk unseen in the air we breathe, the water we drink, the lassitude produced at this season by the change from the rigor of Winter to the warmth of Spring, and it would seem to require almost superhuman vigor to keep in perfect health without reinforcing the physical energies.

But how reinforce them? Certainly not with adulterated stimulants. There is no poison in the outer air, or in the atmosphere of furnace-heated rooms, or work-shops, or factories, so pernicious as those deadl[y] burning fluids. Why use them, when HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a vegetable tonic without alloy, are everywhere obtainable? Nothing has ever been offered to the feeble and debilitated so harmless in its nature, so powerful in its invigorating effects. It is the celebrated

STOMACHIC AND ALTERATIVE.

In the army and the navy in new settlements, and in crowded cities, by old and young, rich and poor, it is used as a PROTECTIVE AND RESTORATIVE MEDICINE, with most gratifying results.

PINUS CANADENSIS.

A tree which is abundant in Canada, Nova Scotia, and the more northern parts of the New England States, and is also found in the elevated and mountainous regions of the Middle States, and abounds in medicinal virtues. Dr. Swett, of Boston, has prepared a medicine from the sweet inside bark of the pine tree, called POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, which is one of rare value in all debilitated states of the kidneys. It acts like a charm in all diseases of mucous membranes, enabling them to regain their lost tone and energy. It will be found well adapted to all those diseases, where Buchu has been tried and failed. It is likewise well suited to chronic coughs, and an infallible specific for old and debilitated cases of asthma. Many persons who at first only took a bottle of this medicine, to try, afterwards came back and got a dozen, or half dozen, which effected radical cures of diseases of the bladder and kidneys of years standing.

Diabetes, a disease that has been looked upon as among the incurables, is immediately relieved by it. Notice the certificate of Asa Goodhue, published some time ago.

The United States Dispensatory, speaking of the pine tree, says: "It is prescribed in leucorrhœa, gleet, and other diseases of the urinary passages; in piles and chronic inflammation or ulceration of the bowels, in chronic catarrhal affections, and in various forms of rheumatism." It is exceedingly valuable in all gravelly affections, bloody urine, and where there is red and white sediment. It can be taken without interruption to one's usual avocations; and after sickening, produces a bracing, healthy power of endurance and vigor. Price, $1 per bottle; six for $5. Ask for POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND. For sale by the gross, dozen or single bottle, at DR. KEYSER'S Great Medicine store, 140 Wood street. ap20

Bad English—Popular Errors in Our Language.

[From the New York Tribune's Review of a new book on the subject, by Edward S. Gould.]

Among the errors in the phraseology of the day, Mr. Gould first treats of the use of spurious words. One of these illegitimate intruders into decent social circles is the word jeopardize, instead of jeopard, which he pitilessly turns out of doors. He supposes that it was foisted in by some ambitious wight, who fancied that the true and good old English word was not fine enough for ears polite. He might as well have made the same improvement, says Mr. Gould, on hazard. Hazardize is no worse than jeopardize, nor is perilize, nor even endanger, except from its unwieldy length. He shows as little mercy to another interloper that is frequently seen now-a-days in good company, that is, leniency, used instead of lenity. Nothing can justify the use of that barbarous word; it sprang up among the ignorant; it has no precedent in our language; it is wholly superfluous; and if sanctioned by the example of recent writers of good authority it is none the less a "philological abortion." Donate is another abomination, but as the use of that word is almost entirely confined to illiterate newspaper reporters and members of Congress, it calls for no further remark.

A very good section of the volume is devoted to the subject of "misused words," although the author now and then offers a criticism, which we think will not bear examination. "But that," for instance, instead of "but," he remarks is a favorite combination with some writers, and good writers do not always escape from it. The phrase is bad enough in itself, but it leads to the worse vulgarism of "but what," as in the genial reply of Mr. Jobling, of Bleak House: "Thank you, Guppy, I don't know but what I will take a marrow pudding." Or, as a famous New York poet replied to a friend who asked whether he was to bring out the latest production of his muse the present season, "I don't know but what I shall." Another vile expression which may be found every day in the newspapers is like this: "General Grant and his family have arrived in town, and are stopping at the Fifth Avenue Hotel." On reading such an announcement one is tempted to inquire: "When will General Grant stop stopping?" In truth stopping is not a continuous process, like going, living, staying, but a single act that terminates the prior action. On my way to Washington I may stop at Philadelphia, but if I am detained a day or two I stay at the Continental Hotel. So a man in walking down Broadway from his house to his office may stop at Barnum's Museum, but it is for a short time, and incidental to the main object; but the traveler who puts up at the Metropolitan Hotel, does something more than stop, and that word by no means indicates that he is for the time being a resident of the house. Mr. Gould gives a capital illustration of the use of the term. "The man who did not invite his (so called) friend to visit him, understood the meaning of the words when he said. "If you come, at any time, within ten miles of my house, just stop." The author quite properly attacks the phrase "in our midst," which first came into use in prayer meetings, sermons, and the religious press, and although sanctioned by the example of many eminent doctors of divinity, and splendid pulpit orators, and even by the poet Montgomery, in one of his most beautiful hymns, is only a fugitive contraband from the German, foreign to the genius of our language, and unworthy the slightest hospitality. Mr. Gould inveighs in good set terms against the dainty innovation which has come to us from London, of restricting the word ride to conveyance on horseback, which he calls a "miserable affectation of accuracy." A lady says she is "going to drive in the park," when she is not going to do any such thing. Her coachman is to drive, and she is to ride which is altogether another affair. The author asks "What is traveling in a railroad car" (which last expression, by the by, is purely American and never heard in England) "Is that driving!" Although a good friend of ours used to ask, "Shall you drive home by the omnibus?" a feat which we never had the slightest idea of performing. Mr. Gould might also have taken up a similar fashionable colloquialism which we have adopted from London, the use of the word "ill" instead of "sick," except in one application—a namby-pamby style which has no countenance from the best and earliest writers of the language. The modern English use of "directly" instead of "as soon as" comes in for a share of his judicious censure." "Directly he arrived he called for ale." "I gave him the letter directly I saw him." We hope with him that neither this, nor the similar innovation of "immediately," in the same sense, will be adopted in this country, as we have escaped it for nearly forty years, since its introduction by Bulwer in his earliest novel. "Different to," instead of "different from," is another corruption which has been in vogue about the same time, which our author does not notice, and which happily has not obtained currency among our writers.

Among the instances of inaccurate expression which Mr. Gould condemns, something may be said of the sentence which he quotes from Macaulay: "The poetry and eloquence of the Augustan age was assiduously studied in Mercian and Northumbrian monasteries." The rule that two or more nouns singular in the nominative case require a plural verb, admits of an exception, as we are told by grammarians, when the idea of unity is more prominent in the phrase than that of pleurality. An instance of this is the often quoted passage: "Sand, and salt, and a man of iron, is easier to bear than a man without understanding." In the sentence taken from Macaulay, the poetry and the eloquence of the Augustan age are not considered separately, but regarded as a whole; otherwise the article the would have been repeated before the second noun; and the whole sentence, accordingly is the nominative to the verb, which, of course, must be in the singular number. Such a form, certainly, is open to doubt on the principles of strict construction; but is of such frequent use by the best writers, that strong authority may be claimed in its favor. An example of it occurs in the April number of the North American Review, which has always been reckoned among the best models of correct writing in this country, as Boston and Cambridge, we know not how justly, claim to be the purest standards of good English in the United States. "The wealth and population of our railroad centers is as yet only in the early stages of development." (p 493.) This sentence is precisely similar in its construction to that quoted from Macaulay, and may be defended on the same grounds; although the writer makes a slip in the course of a few lines, for which nothing can be said. "With wealth comes taste and luxury."

It is a little amusing to find so many writers devoted to the criticism of words, whose own diction exhibits errors no less conspicuous than those which they assail. Mr. Gould is not free from this inconsistency. Thus he speaks of "improving an opportunity," a use of the word which has been zealously challenged, and not admitted by strict purists; "in that connection," a phrase not to be found in any classical English author of early date, and first started in Boston, less than fifty years ago, probably by Mr. Edward Everett, with whom it was a favorite; and finally and worst of all, he has the abominable term indorse in the sense of sanction, a corruption which has crept into literature from Wall street, and which is almost as vile as to be posted, meaning to be informed, which comes from the same unseemly source, though its use is confined chiefly to stage-drivers and bar-room politicians.

Peep at the Newest Wedding Trosseau.

[From the New York Gazette of Friday.]

We had a peep last week at a trosseau which has just arrived from Paris and belongs to a young lady up town who is to be married next week. This trosseau arrived in two large packing cases, and when the contents were taken out and arranged around the rooms, one was reminded of an opening day at some large bazaar. Every thing was there that a lady could possibly wish for, from elegant dresses and laces to boots and gloves. Perhaps the most admirable were a flounce, a vail, a handkercheif, a parasol cover and a fan, all of superb point-lace. They are moreover of the same pattern, and therefore probably made to order.

The lingerie was very beautiful, consisting of the finest linen and most elaborate embroidery and lace. Among other things we noticed some very pretty loose jackets and sacks, for summer wear, of white Swiss muslin trimmed with lace, and others of cluny and lace; collars of every description and shape trimmed with lace and embroidery; the sleeves being made in the most elaborate manner, some beautifully embroidered and others made of muslin puffed with Valenciennes lace between, through which was run colored ribbons. Next came the wedding dress, which was of superb white satin trimmed with a flounce of lace headed with orange blossoms, which added very much to the effect of the dress. The waist was cut low and trimmed with a berthe of lace and orange flowers.

A very beautiful evening dress was of white crape bouillone to the knees, the puffing being divided by rouleaux of crimson satin. Tunic of crepe divided lengthwise by low satin bands, low body trimmed to match the skirt. A beautiful carriage dress was of blue corded silk, trimmed up each seam of the skirt with a wide white satin cord; the round waist made with long peplum points trimmed with folds of bias white satin, and heavy white silk fringe. A pretty house dress was of violet silk trimmed with black guipure; another was of heavy black silk, trimmed with blue silk and jet fringe. A morning dress of white merino was very pretty and tasty, being trimmed with bright cherry color; sleeves large and loose and lined with the same color.

Besides these were cloaks, sacques, shawls, basquines, waists, fancy jackets, parasols, scarfs and shoes, two boxes of kid gloves, four bonnets, three fans, three parasols, and two round hats. It seems to be rather a foolish custom, this getting such an enormous amount of clothing for a bride. Ladies do not seem to remember that the fashion changes constantly, even in little things, such as vails, jewelry, collars, handkerchiefs and lingerie of all kinds; so that before they have half worn out the large stock they have on hand, they have become old-fashioned and yellow—only fit for rags or house-cloths.

Kerosene.

Many persons who use kerosene or coal oil lamps, are in the habit, when going to bed or leaving the room for a time, of turning the wick down low in order to save a trifle of the consumption of oil. The consequence is that the air of the room soon becomes vitiated by the unconsumed oil vapors of the gas produced by combustion, and also by the minute particles of smoke and soot which are thrown off. Air thus poisoned is deadly in its effects, and the wonder is that more persons are not immediately and fatally injured by breathing it. Irritation and inflammation of the throat and lungs, headache, dizziness and nausea are among its effects.

—"How odd it is" said Pat, as he trudged along on foot, one hot sultry day, "that a man never meets a cart going the same way he is."

A Gamblers' Retreat Discovered and Broken Up—Ingenious Apparatus for Fleecing Victims.

Detectives Kirk and Littlefield of the State constabulary, having suspicions that all was not right at No. 49 Tremont street, room No. 1, kept by Nathaniel C. Goodwin, visited the place yesterday forenoon, and found the proprietor seated at his table, upon which were ledgers and certificates of copper stocks, he professing to be agent for the Dayton Copper Company, the name of which company was upon the door. The officers inquired about copper stocks, the state of the markets, &c., and finally made known their real business, which was to search the place upon a warrant from the Municipal Court, charging the premises as being kept for gambling purposes.

Upon search, a closet was found, the door of which was supplied with a small pane of colored glass, and inside of which a man was discovered with a telegraph machine. The man in the closet and the telegraph were usually made useful in this wise: whenever a countryman entered to play and try his luck at cards, he was seated at the table with his back to the closet door, thereby giving the man in the closet a fair chance to see the cards he held in his hands. The telegraph machine was supplied with a wire running from the machine under the carpet, to the business man at the table, who was thus made acquainted with all the cards he was playing against, thus gaining advantage and ultimately fleecing his victim.—Boston Advertiser, of Thursday.

—A brother-in-law of Buckle is going to re-edit his "History of Civilization." People have no idea of the extent of Mr. Bucle's care in his preparation for publication. His manuscript copy for the volumes already published, extended from the floor as high as the ceiling; and, after it was all written he went over it again to verify every quotation before sending it to press.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette, }
Tuesday, April 23, 1867. }

The New York stock quotations to-day, as received by Mr. P. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 138¼; Eighty-one bonds, 109¼; Five Twenties, 1862, 110½; do, 1864, 108¼; do, 1865, 108¾; Consols, '65, 107⅜; Ten Forties, ——; Seven Thirties, 106⅛; 2d issue, 105⅛; 3d issue, 105⅛; Michigan Southern Railroad, 66¼; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 68¼; Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago, 93; Chicago and Northwestern, common, 31¼; do preferred, 58¼; New York Central, 96¼; Reading, 100¾; Erie, 56¾; Chicago and Rock Island, 86¼; Western Union Telegraph, 36¼.

Gold opened strong at 138⅝, declined to 138¼, but advanced after the late European news was received to 138¼@138¾. The demand is quite lively from business men dealing in imported goods, they having calculated on lower rates on or before the first of May, but not wishing to run any further risks, are covering their contracts and their bills. Government securities are still higher to-day, and should bank balances continue to increase in the eastern cities, must soon advance still more, since there is no security on the market that could so readily be disposed of. The great abundance of money for temporary investments has at last shown its influence on the stock market, and all solid Railroad shares are in request at advanced prices, and most of the "fancies" are better. Northwestern, common, is the only weak stock waiting for a stir.

—The London quotations for Five Twenties show a seeming decline of the three cents, owing to the fact that "settling day" takes place on the middle of each month. Hence sales of bonds made after the 16th of April and October will not be "settled" for till the 16th of May and November, and as the interest falls due on the 1st of the months last named, their "flat" value falls off three per cent. taking effect the day after the settlement previous. The decline in the value of Five Twenties in Europe has not materially affected the market here. The advance in gold to 138¾ has more than compensated for the fall in foreign quotations, and the price at home has advanced on all the issues of Five Twenties. There is a steady investment demand for bonds, the impression apparently gaining strength that the value of this class of securities is less dependent upon the fluctuations incident to commerce in the present condition of affairs, than other investments. The Financial Chronicle says the unsettled state of bonds at London and Frankfort has not been attended with any operations of consequence among foreign bankers here; nor is there any indication that orders have been received from Europe to sell Five Twenties. As a rule, bonds have been lower here than in Europe, but under the uncertainties as to foreign markets there has been no disposition to ship them.

—The Philadelphia Press says: The spring trade has not been as backward as it was at first supposed it would be, for consumers had been holding back until they could no longer help themselves, the conviction having established itself that there can be no material decline for some time to come. The present prospect, however, is by no means encouraging; for, with the breaking out of a foreign war, now so much feared, the gold premium must continue to fluctuate, and unsettle, for a while, at least, that mercantile confidence without which there can be no substantial prosperity. The manufacturing, mining, and mechanical branches of industry have suffered of late very materially, from causes peculiar to themselves, namely, the labor strikes; and the depression thus caused has already communicated itself to other branches. The present effect of these strikes cannot be otherwise than pernicious to the interests of all classes; but, so far as they may serve to check over production, and to bring both capital and labor to a realizing sense of their mutual dependence, they may not be ultimately without some good results.

The same paper also remarks that should some of the leading European powers become involved in war, there will doubtless be developed a demand for gold for export carrying up the price of that commodity; and perhaps this state of things may involve a considerable return upon the home market of American securities now held abroad. But this effect will be merely temporary; and in the end European capital will flow in upon us for safe investment and profitable employment, while most of our agricultural products will be further enhanced in value by the extraordinary demand for consumption created among the belligerents. A general European war, though it could not be looked upon in any other light than that of a great public calamity as regards the general interests of civilization, would nevertheless in a short while operate as a great stimulus to the productive industry and commerce of this country by enlarging their markets.

New York Financial Matters.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Government securities opened strong and active, with a demand for '62s from foreign houses, and advanced to 110¼ this afternoon. Prices, therefore, were a fraction lower, but otherwise steady. Registered of '81, 109⅝@109¾; coupons of '81, 109⅝@109¾; 5-20's, registered of '62, 104⅜@105; 5-20 coupons of '62, 110@110⅛; 5-20 coupons of '64, 108⅝@108¾; do of July, 107½@107¾; 10-40's, registered, 98⅛@98¼; 10-40 coupons, 98⅜@98⅝; August 7-30's, 106⅛@106¼; June do, 105⅞@105¾.

Stocks opened rather firmer, with apparently more disposition to buy. As call at the regular Board progressed the bearish feeling gained the ascendancy, and prices fell off ¼@¾ per cent. At the Second Board prices were steady, except Fort Wayne, which fell to 91¾@91⅞, in sympathy with the proposal to issue $1,500,000 more stock, which it is understood is to be offered at 80 to stockholders. Market firm at last open Board and, after call, with increased demand, which resulted in an advance of ¼@⅜ per cent.

William Heath & Co. report the following as the 5:30 P. M. prices: Gold 138@138⅛; Ohio and Mississippi certificate, 62; Cumberland, 28@28½; Quicksilver, 27¾@29; Mariposa, 6¾@7¼; do. preferred, 19¾@30¼; Western Union Telegraph, 36⅝@37; New York Central, 96⅛@96⅜; Erie, 57@57¼; Hudson, 90@91; Reading, 101⅛@101⅜; Michigan Central, 108; Michigan Southern, 66⅛@66¼; Illinois Central, 113@113¼; Cleveland and Pittsburgh, 68¼@68⅜; Cleveland and Toledo, 111⅞@112¼; Rock Island and Pacific, 86¼@86⅜; North Western, 31⅝@31¾; do. preferred 58⅛@58¼; Pittsburgh Fort Wayne and Chicago, 92@92¼; Pacific Mail, 125⅞@126; Atlantic, 88@87⅛; Border State bonds quiet. PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette, }
Tuesday, April 23, 1867. }

There are no new characteristics in the produce markets worthy of special notice. The demand for most of the leading commodities has fallen off materially within the past few days, and for some articles, prices are declining; and, indeed, the general tendency is downward.

GRAIN—There is no movement in Wheat and none in this market. Oats dull with continued liberal arrivals, and prices are tending downward; we now quote at 62 to 63c, on track, and 65c to 67c, in store. Sale of 200 bushels at 63c. Corn is firm but unchanged—$1 to $1,05 for prime Yellow. Sale of 1 car Rye at $1,60—an advance. Barley is quoted at $1,05 to $1,10 for Spring.

FLOUR—Is dull but unchanged. We continue to quote at $14 to $14½ for Spring Wheat; $15 to $16 for Winter Wheat; and $18 to $19 for fancy St. Louis brands. Rye Flour, $9 per bbl, and Cornmeal $1,10 per bushel.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is steady and unchanged at 9½c to 10c for Shoulders; 11¾ to 12⅝c for Ribbed and Clear Sides; 15½c to 15¾c for Plain Sugar Cured Hams, and 16½ to 16¾ for Canvassed Hams. Dried Beef, 23. Lard, 13 and Mess Pork, $23 to $23,50.

SEEDS—Cloverseed is dull and drooping; it has declined to $9@9,50 in Philadelphia. Timothy seed is selling in store at $3. Flaxseed is in good demand at $3.

EGGS—Continue very dull, with a supply largely in excess of the demand. We continue to quote nominally at 16 to 18c.

BUTTER—Is plenty and dull, and prime fresh Roll is selling at 30c. There is no inquiry for packed Butter.

POTATOES—Quiet but steady, with regular sales in store, at 95c to $1 per bush.

OIL—Lard Oil is firm but unchanged—90c for No. 2, and $1,10 for No. 1.

GREEN APPLES—Dull, with a supply considerably in excess of the demand. We now quote at $4,50 to $5 per bbl for good to prime.

HAY—Sale of 7 tons baled, on wharf, at $25. Prime may be quoted at $26 to $27.

MILL FEED—Scarce, and held firmly at at extreme prices. Sale of Middlings at $2.25 per cwt.

DRIED FRUIT—Is dull but unchanged—small sales at 8 to 9c for Apples, and 14c to 18c for Peaches.

PIG LEAD—200 pigs at 10⅝c.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette, }
Tuesday, April 23, 1867. }

CRUDE—The market continues very dull and weak, and while holders, as yet, seem unwilling to make concessions, there are but few, if any, buyers at present asking prices. There are plenty of offers to sell at 6¾c, for spot oil, and 7c for May, and offers to buy at 6¼c to 6½c for the former, and 6¾c for the latter. The fact that there are but few tank buyers at present, restricts the demand considerably, as refiners generally are pretty well stocked, and do not seem disposed to buy more at present, unless they can do so at a decline. Oil is reported scarce at the wells and Oil City, but such is not the case here, as at no time, perhaps, in the history of the trade, has there been such a stock in and about Pittsburgh.

REFINED—There was not a single operation in bonded oil to-day, at least we had but one reported, 1000 standard white, for all the year 1867, buyer's option, at 32¼, delivered in Philadelphia. We are cognizant of offers to sell standard white at 21¾, on cars here, without finding buyers, and prime light straw to white cannot fairly be quoted above 20 to 20½ for same delivery. The market is still reported very dull and neglected in Philadelphia, with but little prospect of any immediate improvement.

—Since the above was written, we have a sale of 4000 bbls standard white, running from May to December, 500 each month, at 29½; and 200 bbls West Virginia crude, at 14, packages included.

ARRIVALS—The following arrivals of oil were reported to-day:

Jas. Wilkins	730	Fisher & Bro.	5800
D. M. Edgerton	200	W. McCutcheon	53
D. Bly	154	Waring & King	45

ALLEGHENY CATTLE MARKET.

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette, }
Tuesday, April 23, 1867. }

CATTLE.

The supply of cattle was again light this week, not exceeding five hundred head, and with a very good retail demand, and some inquiry for shipment, the market ruled firm, and all the offerings were disposed of at full prices. Good to extra retailing cattle sold at from 8 to 9¼, and stockers may be quoted at 5½ to 6½, according to quality and condition. The great bulk of cattle on sale this week were from Chicago, and were in the hands of regular dealers, there being but very few "outsiders" in attendance. The following is a pretty full report of all the transactions:

Glass & Lafferty sold 37 head of good to extra Illinois steers at 7½ to 8¾; also, 21 head of mixed Ohio cattle at 4½ to 7½. Sargeant sold 15 head stock cattle to Aull at 6½; and Shamberg sold 5 head of fairish cattle to same buyer at 7¼. Blackstock & Hazlewood retailed 16 head at 8¼ to 8¾; also, 18 head to Wickline & Snyder, at 8¾. Blackwood sold Geo. Evans (butcher) one very fine show heifer, weighing 1605 pounds, for Allegheny market, at 9½; also, one very fine steer, weighing 1630, at same price. Merrick & Doud sold 18 head at 7½ to 8¾. Myers & Needy wholesaled 55 head of good cattle, for New York market, to Grey & Martin at 8¾ to 9; and retailed 55 head at 7½ to 8¾. Kraus & Haas retailed 62 head at 8 to 9. Greenwald & Kahn 52 head at 8 to 8¾. Marks & Trauman, 60 head at 7¾ to 9. L. Rothchilds, 19 head at 7½ to 8¼.

SHEEP.

But very few Sheep on sale this week, though as there were but few, if any, wholesale buyers in attendance, the demand was restricted mainly to supplying the wants of butchers. Shaw is reported as having retailed a lot of clipped Sheep at 6¼ to 6½; and Rynn & Co. sold a number of wooled Sheep at 7½ to 8.

HOGS.

Market for this grade of stock continues dull at these yards, the demand being restricted almost entirely to supplying the wants of the retail trade. Sargeant sold 16 head, averaging about 165, at 6⅝; and Emerick & Co. report having retailed about 125 head at 7½ to 8¼, gross.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to fall slowly at this point with eight and a half feet in the channel by the Allegheny marks last evening. At Oil City, the Allegheny was reported rising, with five feet at that point, and from this, it must be inferred that there has been heavy rains at the headwaters of that stream within the past few days. Here, the weather was cloudy and cold yesterday, and it was thought that there would be a sharp frost last night.

The Argosy, from Cincinnati, and the Spray, from Portsmouth, are the only arrivals we have to report. The Argosy had an excellent trip, including over two thousand sacks of corn, and 500 barrels of mess pork. There were no departures aside from the regular packets.

The Columbia, Capt. Reed, leaves to-day for the Upper Mississippi, with an excellent trip. As it will be some time before there is another boat ready to start for that point, passengers and shippers should take advantage of the opportunity now presented. Messrs. Russell and Spiane are associated together in the office.

The ever prompt and reliable Argosy, Capt. Lewis Vandergrift, with Mr. W. H. Scott in the office, is the regular packet for Cincinnati to-day, leaving promptly at noon.

The Importer, Capt. Noss, is announced to leave for St. Louis to-day, as is also the America, Capt. T. H. Golding, for New Orleans. These are both excellent boats. The America is also receiving freight for Cincinnati and Louisville.

The Kate Putnam, Capt. J. H. Lightner, with Mr. J. D. Young in the office, leaves for St. Louis to-morrow without fail. The Putnam already has a good portion of her cargo engaged, and will leave on Thursday without fail. She offers superior accommodations for passengers. The Nora is loading for the gold regions, in charge of Capt. James Shedden.

The Glendale passed Evansville on Sunday, enroute for St. Louis, as did also the Bellevernon, enroute from St. Louis to Pittsburgh. The towboats Ajax, Boaz, Antelope, Resolute, and W. H. Brown passed down the same day on their way to New Orleans.

The Great Republic leaves St. Louis for New Orleans on Wednesday, and Cairo on Friday morning. She is now in complete running order, and will soon "set the pegs" for all the fast nags plying the Lower Mississippi.

Preparations are being made to start rafts down the Mississippi. Pilots are making their way up to the pineries. The Dubuque Herald says that Daniel McLain, the well-known raft pilot, has departed for the foot of Lake Pepin, with a force of twenty-one men to bring down a raft of lumber which wintered there, belonging to parties in St. Louis. Dan has been offered $100 premium if he makes the first run into that city.

The Ida left Dubuque on Wednesday night, going north after a load. Galena, it is said, contains more oats than any town on the river, nearly all bound for the Southern markets.

Albert Teufel, who was hanged for murder, at Doylestown, Pennsylvania, last Thursday, confessed to have been engaged in the robbery of the Mississippi steamer Mary E. Forsyth in 1862 or 1863; that he drugged the clerk of the steamer, and then robbed the office of $15,000. Being asked where he spent the money, he replied, "on drunks, oftentimes spending from $200 to $300 a night."

The St. Louis Democrat thus speaks of "the situation," as it was at the close of last week: "It is very apparent that there is an excess of tonnage offered for mountain freight. Some of them won't go unless freight increases. The Arkansas trade begins to look fair. We find one of the packets, the Sharkey, coming back with a respectable cargo. There is also something doing in the Tennessee trade. Good back trips are expected from Eastport and Florence. The Vicksburg trade will no doubt grow steadily in importance, as the value of the railroad connections become developed."

We clip the following items from the Cincinnati Gazette, of Monday: Anglo Saxon, whose crew put to flight a lot of abusive reconstructed chivalry at Memphis, which act called forth all the billingsgate epithets that the noodles of the river chaps of the Bulletin, Avalanche and Appeal could contain, has safely arrived at this port. If the suffering poor of the South are in need of corn, the Anglo Saxon is ever ready to carry her share without price or money. There is no better Samaritan alive than her Captain. The Wild Duck, with two barges in tow, from St. Louis, will be at the wharf to-day. She has 1050 tons of iron ore, and a quantity of miscellaneous freight. She discharges 100 tons of iron here, and 100 tons at Portsmouth, 500 at Steubenville, and 350 tons of iron and 75 tons of fireclay and lead pipe at Pittsburgh.

A St. Louis telegram of yesterday, (23d) says: The latest accounts from Platte river says that the freshet had reached its height, and the water is slowly receding, and there is no fear of further danger to the Pacific railroad entertained, and the recent damage will be speedily repaired. The worst break was near Elkhorn Station, where four hundred yards of track was washed away. The road between Omaha and Chicago is badly damaged, and the water is still rising.

A dispatch from St. Paul, same date, (23d) says: The river overflowed the levee yesterday, submerging a portion of West St. Paul and the Minnesota Valley Railroad stopping trains for several days. The Minnesota river overflowed at Mankato, and the town of Leseur is under water. The steamer Itasica has arrived from La Crosse, and navigation is fully open.
